A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE

More Than a Million Dollars Goes up in Smoke.

A Conflagration Swept Though the Retail Dry Goods District of the City of Newark New Jersey, Last Night People Badly

(By Telegraph to Virginian-Pilot.)

New York, Feb. 27 .- The greatest fire Newark, N. J., ever experienced swept through the retail dry goods district tonight, destroying a score or more of buildings. The loss is estimated at over $1,000,000. Several lives may have been lost, and several persons were badly burned.

The fire started in W. V. Snyder's department store, at Broad and Cedar streets, a four-story building, of seventy-five feet frontage, and extending 200 feet along Cedar street. The stock was valued at half a million dollars, and nothing was saved. The building was burned to the ground.

The fire broke out about 6:20 p. m. after several hundred employees had left the building, which was then taken charge of by a number of sweepers. It is thought that some of the engineroom force and similar employees may have also been in the building. The flames spread with terrible rapidity, the entire building being enveloped before the arrival of the firemen.

A THRILLING SCENE.

A THRILLING SCENE.

Only one man was seen and he was at the window on the second floor in a frenzy of fear. The firemen raised a ladder, but before they could scale it the man swung himself through the broken window and on to the ladder. As he reached the ladder a rush of flame came through the window, enguifing him. It receded in a moment, and the man was seen on the ladder wrapped in fire as his clothing burned. A fireman ran up the ladder on the under side and grabbed him to prevent him from falling. Then others went up on the upper side and began tearing if the burning clothing from the man. They did this with their naked hands and were themselves burned. Thousands of people witnessed the thrilling scene. The burning clothing was torn from the man and with it came portions of the flesh. The man was taken to a hospital. to a hospital.

BEYOND CONTROL.

BEYOND CONTROL.

Meanwhile a general alarm was a turned in and all of the fifty odd pieces of fire apparatus in the city were rolling to the fire. Ten minutes after the fire was discovered the flames had leaped across Cedar street and were traveling also northward along Broad street. Within half an hour the fire was beyond control.

The four-story building adjoining the Snyder building, on Broad street, and occupied by J. H. Maniz, dealer in laces and similar goods on the first floor and offices on the upper floors, was totally destroyed with everything it contained.

could save either of them. The rear end of the Bee Hive dry goods store, owned by L. S. Strauss & Co., was next to go, and here a large body of firemen concentrated and fought hard to keep the fire from entering the main building, which was separated from the rear portion by a party wall with iron doors. The fight was a stubborn one. The doors became red hot and the task looked hopeless.

SPREAD OF A FIRE.

'SPREAD OF A FIRE.

While the flames were thus eating the heart out of the most important business block on Broad street, the fire was spreading westward along Cedar street on both sides. On the south side of this street, the fire burned from No. 2, at the rear of Rae's store, to No. 24. These were all small stores, in buildings three and four stories high, the upper floors being occupied largely as dwellings. In this row was Bierman's pawnshop, where many thousand dollars' worth of articles were destroyed.

On the north side of Cedar street, back of Snyder's, the fire attacked a row of eleven brown stone and brick brildings, used as offices on the upper floors, and stores on the ground floor. All the police in the city were on duty at the fire except those absolutely needed on post. A hundred thousand spectators witnessed the conflagration. The crowd had to be forced back again and again as the advance of the flames caused the firemen to shift position back.

FIRE LINES EXTENDED.

FIRE LINES EXTENDED.

Finally orders were given to extend the fire lines beyond the two blocks on either side and the crowd was pushed back, and lines were stretched across the street. Women fainted in the fearful crush. Blows were exchanged and clothing was torn from backs.

Despite the cold the crowd insisted upon remaining, and stood for hours watching the destruction of a million dollars worth of property. The heat close to the fire was fearful, and the firemen were driven back time and again. They had to move their apparatus many times. Several times men thandling the hose had to abandon it and flee from the flames, which threatened to engulf them. They were coared with ice when they went a few feet away from the fire, and the next moment would be almost roasted by the heat, as the fire advanced, or they returned to their battle.

The streets for blocks were flooded and ice-covered as the water flowed from the fire outside the heated zone.

BADLY BURNED.

The fire was under control at 10:30. The man rescued from the building proved to be Oscar O. Schaekleton, eixty years of age. He was superintendent of the store and making his usual round of inspection after the employees had left when caught by the fire. He is at St. Michael's Hospital, and is badly burned.

Watson Snyder, cashier of the firm, escaped from the building. He had just closed the safe after putting the money turned in by the department cashiers into it. He started back to investigate the fire, but it advanced so rapidly he had to flee. He thinks the fire started from an electric wire.

ESTABLISHMENTS RUINED.

Next to it was the restaurant and confectionery establishment of T. B. Allen, a fashionable caterer, this building also containing offices of many kinds. It was destroyed, as was also the trunk store of C. B. Peddle. The fire completely gutted this building, but left the front part almost untouched. Then it gutted the rear of the big department store of David Strauss. The firement store of David Strauss. The firement at this point made a desperate stand to prevent the fire from getting into Harlegen's jewelry store, which was next in the block.

At the same time the flames were travelling southward with as much fury as on the north of the original fire. W. T. Rae's jewelry store occupied the corner opposite Snyder's. Nothing was saved here, although the valuable stock of jewelry, probably the largest in Newark, was securely locked in the vaults of the building. Above the jewelry store the building standing abhave a faw feet from the sidewalk. The flames drove through a solid wall into P. J. Garrigan's drug store. dated Monday, describes at considerable length the "enormous difficulties of General Buller's task," and says:

"The real advance began last Wednesday. The stupendous nature of the task was only understood when, being on the spot, one was able to realize what it means to hurl infantry at positions aligned in every direction with carefully prepared trenches and with breastworks defended by practically invisible riflemen, armed with the most deadly rapid-firing weapons and aided by quick-firing guns, which put all but our cannon of the largest calibre into the shade."

RESULT OF SURRENDER

RESULT OF SURRENDER.

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 27.—Montagu
White, official representative of the South African Republic, was the guest of the Independent Club to-night.

Relative to the surrender of Cronje
and the probable outcome of the war, he declared with evident feeling that Cronje's stand had been most heroic,
but that inevitably the little republics in South Africa would be crushed. He said, however, that England would never conquer the Boers, and that eventually they would rise again and drive the British from South Africa.
Whatever the outcome of the struggle might be, he said one thing was assured, and that was that it would lay the foundation of liberty in South Africa.

A PREMATURE OPINION.

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 27.—Montagu White. of Pretorla, former Consul-General of the South African Republic at London, who arrived here to-day, in reply to a query, said the surrender of General Cronje marked the close of the offensive operations of the war. The enormous, overwhelming British force had compelled the abandonment of offensive tactics and the beginning of defense.

TALK OF PEACE.

London, Feb. 28.—The Cape Town correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, telegraphing Monday, says:

"There is talk of peace in the air.

The English organ of the Afrikander Bund proposes the formation of a conciliation committee, the object being, of course, to save Boer independence.

"While Lord Roberts was holding Cronje at Paardeberg it is understood that General French was moving toward Bloemfontein."

The American Flag.

The American flag, with its glorious freedom, now floats over a land of harbacity. If any one had prophested four years ago that we should own possessions near China, he would have been laughed to scorn. Yet change is constantly taking place. Nature is merciless. So soon as she discovers an improvement, the old, whatever it may be, is doomed. The fact that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the famous cure for dyspensia, has remained unchanged for half a century, proves its value indisputably. It has been tried for fifty years and found pure. Try it for indigostion, biliousness, constitution or malaria, fever and ague, and be convinced. Your case is not incurable, you simply have not used the right remedy. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is what you need—the sooner the better. Any druggist will furnish you with it. It is particularly valuable at this season of the year.
